Profile:

Judyann M. Lee is Of Counsel with McMillan Metro, P.C. with expertise in Real Estate Law. Judyann's real estate practice focuses primarily on the development and operation of common interest projects, including homeowners associations, commercial, residential and mixed-use projects, including condominiums, cooperatives, and timeshare resorts. She is licensed in Virginia and the District of Columbia as well as Maryland, and is knowledgeable in the laws affecting common interest communities in all of those jurisdictions, as well as other relevant state and federal regulations. She represents community associations during development and after their transition to homeowner management. Judyann is happy to leverage that practical operational knowledge to help in the formation of these associations so that they're set up to run in a smooth manner long after the developer has sold out the project and moved on. She gets real satisfaction from helping construct associations that anticipate issues and minimize the likelihood of future conflict. Her more than 20 years of experience with common interest projects gives her the opportunity to offer clients clear, real-world advice.
